

Community Computer Learning Center

Through a partnership between Salt Lake City and Salt Lake Community College, the School of Applied Technology is pleased to offer free computer access to residents of Glendale and Rose Park at the Sorenson Unity Center. Everyone is welcome (children under 16 must be accompanied by an adult). Computer use may include searching the internet or using e-mail as well as using any of the computer-assisted instructional programs that teach adult basic skills, English as a Second Language, computer literacy, keyboarding, word processing, spreadsheets, and many other computer skills.

For information, drop by the Sorenson Unity Center or call (801) 957-2550.
